Offer Snapshot · the 5-second test

THE OFFER IN ONE LINE (14 WORDS)
I help earning owners keep 10% net income and pay themselves in 90 days.

POSITIONING · WHY ME, NOT THE ALTERNATIVES
Your accountant reports what happened. Hype programs sell a platform and leave. I sit on your actual books three times a week until the money stays, then leave you a system that keeps showing you.

PRICE · EXACT
₱148,000 · ₱48,000 to start, then ₱50,000 and ₱50,000

90-DAY GOAL · A NUMBER
10% net income kept every month, and a fixed salary paid, for all six owners

DAILY KEY METRIC · UNDER 30 SECONDS
Month-to-date net income against breakeven, in the Morning Numbers

THE NAMING MATH · ONE SENTENCE
Six owners. 10% net kept and a salary on the calendar in 90 days. Or I keep working free, or every peso back.

YELLOW • THE RESULT

Result: Keep at least 10% net income and your own salary on the calendar.

How much, by when: within 90 days, on your actual books.

RED • THE OBSTACLES, WHAT THEY HAVE NOW

1. Wrong Hill Grind

"Ang dami kong ginagawa, bakit hindi pa rin umaandar?"
(I'm doing so much, why is nothing moving?)

2. The Leftover Habit

"Malaki ang benta, bakit parang wala pa rin?"
(Sales are big, so why does it feel like there's nothing?)

3. Skipped Paydays

"Ako na lang ang hindi sumasahod."
(I'm the only one who doesn't get paid.)

THE PRODUCT HANDLE

Final name: The Money That Stays Method, sold to the first cohort as The Founding Six.

Description: A 90-day, one-to-one program where business owners fix their numbers on their own books, then run them on their own AI system.

Benefit: They know their breakeven, keep at least 10% net income every month, and pay themselves first, with their Numbers Navigator showing them the numbers every morning.

Metaphor: An instrument panel for a business you've been flying blind: you still fly the plane, now you can see where you're going. Taglish twin: "Parang palayok na tinakpan ang butas: hindi na tumutulo ang pera." (Like a clay pot with its crack sealed: the money stops leaking out.)
