

LEVEL 3 • IMMERSION ONLY • DAY 4 • 270 MINUTES

The playbook, and the transfer.

What the ₱75,000 buys over the ₱15,000 — and why it can only be done in a room.

A playbook built alone at a laptop is a form. A playbook built with someone asking “why that number?” is a decision.

MODULE SEVEN • 180 MIN

Your Personal Playbook

Everything so far has been our rules. Today you write yours.

WHO THIS DOCUMENT IS FOR

You, at 3am, eighteen months from now.

Tired, frightened, holding a phone. That person is not as clever as you are right now — bad sleep, two months of red candles, someone in a group chat saying it is going to zero. They will not re-derive anything. They will do what the paper says if the paper is clear, and something stupid if it is not. Write for that person. Short sentences. Numbers, not principles.

Could a tired person follow this at 3am without deciding anything?

Fails

- “Manage risk appropriately”
- “Keep LTV low”
- “Review regularly”
- Nothing to do. No number. No trigger.

Passes

- “If LTV reaches 60%, transfer ₱_____ from reserve, or repay the loan in full”
- There is an action and there is a number.

Building it — and what faculty will ask you

1 Your position

Entry, deployed, borrowed, LTV, liquidation price, reserve. → “Say your liquidation price without looking.”

2 Your three buckets

Amounts, and where each physically sits. → “Which account? How long to reach it? Is it locked?”

3 Your ladder

Three levels, three amounts, weighted deepest. → “Price hits 0.618 tomorrow. How much, exactly?”

4 Your alarms

Four prices, set on the phone in this room. → “Alarm 3 fires during a client meeting. What happens?”

BLOCK 5 • THE ONE NOBODY HAS CONSIDERED

Your growth ceiling.

A number at which you stop adding. Not a target — a ceiling. Find it by asking: at what size would this position becoming worthless change my life? Not annoy me — change it. School fees, the business, the house. Your ceiling sits below that. Write it down today, while you are calm, because you will not be able to set it honestly during a bull run. That is the entire point of setting it now.

Your never-list, then read it out loud

1 Three things you will never do

In your own handwriting. → Faculty: “which of these have you already been tempted by this week?”

2 Read the whole playbook aloud

To one faculty member and one peer. The peer asks “what would you actually do?” at any line that does not say.

3 You cannot hear a vague sentence until you say it

Every one of you will find a line that sounded fine written and sounds like nothing spoken. Fix it while faculty is in the room.

The Transfer Question

The third word of the programme, and the part almost nobody does.

THE ORIGINAL PRINCIPLE

Buy · Borrow · Die

Buy an asset, borrow against it instead of selling, and when you die it passes to your heirs. You never sold, so the sale never happened. The strategy only COMPLETES if the asset transfers.

AND HERE IS THE PROBLEM

Land transfers. Bitcoin does not.

A hectare in BGC

- There is a title
- There is a registry
- There are lawyers
- The state knows the asset exists
- It transfers whether you planned for it or not

Bitcoin on an exchange

- Secured by credentials only you hold
- No registry
- No process
- Nobody knows it exists
- It transfers to NOBODY

WHY WE SAY THRIVE

There is a version that does not require you to die first.

The asset stays. Borrowing capacity grows as it appreciates. At some point the position can fund things — a business, a house, an education — without being sold. That is thriving on an asset instead of consuming it. Same mechanic, better ending. But it still depends on the transfer question, because a strategy measured in decades has to survive you.

Written in the room today

An access document

What exists and how it is reached. NOT passwords in a file — a written record of the accounts, the platforms, and the recovery process.

One person who knows it exists

A strategy nobody knows about is a strategy that dies with you. Write the name down today.

The loan is a liability your heirs inherit

Die with a borrow open and the platform still holds its claim. Your family inherits collateral AND a loan — unserviced, it liquidates, on the people you were doing this for. Write: “repay from reserve first, then hold.”

Get proper advice

PH treatment of digital assets is genuinely unsettled. I am faculty, not your lawyer. Doing nothing is also a decision — and it is the one that loses everything.

ONE QUESTION, THEN YOU ARE DONE

If you died tonight, could your family reach this?

If the answer is no, you do not have a strategy. You have a hobby with money in it.

WHERE YOU GO FROM HERE

Nobody has watched you run it.

You have a written playbook you built yourself — buckets, ladder, alarms, growth ceiling, transfer. It is yours, not ours. A playbook survives a calm week easily. What you cannot know yet is what you do when it is your own money, your own drawdown, and nobody in the room. Alarm 3 fires about once a year. Yours has not fired yet with faculty beside you.

And who should not take it

Twelve months, faculty beside you, one full cycle

Includes a year of the Thrive Circle. The same-day call when Alarm 3 fires is the product.

Do not take it to have someone else make the call

We will not, and you would be paying us to disappoint you.

Do not take it if mentorship costs more than your position

Put the money in the position instead. Come back when the numbers make sense — we would rather tell you that now than take it.
